

Valentine's Day Coupons

Valentine's Day coupons get kids to stretch their imaginations and budgets for the holiday. With some colorful paper and a strong imagination, your child can make thoughtful—and free!—Valentine's Day gifts for friends or family. Each homemade Valentine's Day coupon promises a small favor or token of affection to the recipient. More unique than sending out generic greeting cards, these redeemable Valentine's Day coupons are also a great way for your little one to practice reading and writing. Make a set of Valentine's Day coupons for friends and family this February.

What You Need:

- Colorful paper
- Markers
- Glue, glitter, stickers, or sequins (optional)

What You Do:

1. Before your child begins writing out the coupons, ask your child to brainstorm what each recipient would appreciate or enjoy. Some ideas: one car wash, one night of washing dishes, a hug, a foot massage, etc. Encourage your child to come up with something unique and creative for each person receiving a coupon!
2. Ask your child to cut out several check-sized pieces of paper. Be sure to make at least one coupon per family member.
3. Have your child use markers to designate what each coupon offers and who the recipient is.
4. Encourage your child to decorate the coupons using decorative materials.

Your child now has a unique heartfelt gift to send to family and friends!
